JACKSONVILLE

July 27, 2020

Dear KIPP Jacksonville Families,

We are writing to you over the summer to continue to communicate next steps for the fall so our KIPPsters can keep learning. Our records indicated that you have chosen KIPP@Home for your KIPPster(s) on the Student Learning Experience Selection form. As we communicated in our School Opening video on July 10th, a requirement of KIPP@Home is a mandatory parent orientation prior to the start of school. The attached flyer provides more information about the orientation, please click this link to access the sign up.

If you or your enrolled student are unable to attend one of the listed dates and you do not contact us, your student will be enrolled in face-to-face school. For safety reasons, please do not bring young children or non-KIPPsters to your session.

Returning families with a Chromebook from the Spring should bring them to their session; all other families should bring the technology they plan to use for KIPP@Home. At the end of orientation, you will receive your KIPPster's learning materials; please bring a bag to carry them home safely.

Please bring any outstanding enrollment documents, including medical paperwork, to your session.

Thank you for your support as we navigate this crisis together. We are partners, we are listening, and we hope to be able to see your children soon. We miss our KIPPsters!

Big Belief,
Dr. Fullmore
